

"I just saw Janet Robin play live and holy moly! This woman can rip it up! Robin studied with Randy Rhoads back in the day and has toured with Lindsay Buckingham. Robin has toured, recorded, or written songs with Meredith Brooks, Monty Montgomery, Michelle Shocked, Maia Sharp, Marcy Levy (co-writer with Eric Clapton on "Lay Down Sally"), Ann and Nancy Wilson (Heart) and Anne McCue. She incorporates a vast number of techniques and cultures into her playing style, and is just a born performer. If you have a chance to see her live, don't hesitate!"

Janet Robin

Sunday • March 19th • 4-6 p.m.

"Working with Janet was an unforgettable experience. She followed her spirit — no limits. Janet's love for her art is evident in her impassioned musicianship and inspired songwriting. The music we created together, vibrant and full of energy, encapsulates all that she is."

~ John Carter Cash (Producer, owner Cash Cabin Studios)

Janet Robin can be defined in a single word: 'musician'. Many people attempt to make music, but few earn that illustrious title. That a serious addiction to making music runs through Robin's veins is made clear from a quick review of her career. [See her website] Her music bridges the gap between passionate acoustic and gutsy rock n' roll. She has had songs placed in TV and films such as "One Life to Live," "All my Children," "Felicity," "Free Enterprise," and many more. She completed the original score for the short film "Traces," directed by Joseph Culp, which, in June 2012, was accepted into the prestigious Palm Springs Short Film Festival and the Hollywood Film Awards. And in June/July of 2015 she was hand picked for the guitar position in the musical "Girlfriend."
